Matilda is an intelligent girl. She develops skills such as walking and speech at an early age. At the age of 18 months, she is able to converse at an adult level. She teaches herself how to read by studying newspapers and magazines when she is three. When she is four, she can read fast and well. The drawing shows that Matilda enjoys reading books. The first book she read is called Great Expectations, which was written by Charles Dickens. The trolley which is piled up with books shows her reading passion. The evidence shows that Matilda is a bibliophile genius.

3. Comment and Sharing: (about 100 words)

This book is very interesting, especially the plot and climax. It gives me lots of excitement. Matilda has a strong sense of fairness. She knows the difference between right and wrong. This makes her know more about bullying. Although she possesses many extraordinary abilities, her parents don't pay attention to her and always ignore her. Fortunately, she has a good teacher, Miss Honey, who really cares about her. From this story, I have learnt I am a lucky person. I admit that if things follow my expectations, it can affect my feelings. But I have someone who loves me and cares about me, including my parents, my friends and teachers. This makes me reflect a lot. Therefore I need to appreciate what I have from now on. "Count my blessings!"
